Moustafa A. ASHMAWY

(Historian – ERASMUS Coordinator / Member of the Association)

He is Sinop University Erasmus/Mevlana Exchange Programs Specialist and Sinop University Eurodesk Contact Point. He holds a Bachelor of Accounting and a Master of History. He is doing a PhD in History. Since he adopts the idea that international projects are a means of interaction on environmental awareness and climate issues, as well as cultural development, these projects are in his area of interest. He believes that acculturation develops through interaction. For this purpose, he takes part in EU projects based on youth exchange and cultural change. In this way, he works on participating in projects and activities that allow different cultures to get to know each other. He believes that this interaction will make young people understand the importance of empathizing and gaining environmental awareness.
